

Fringe Embroidery

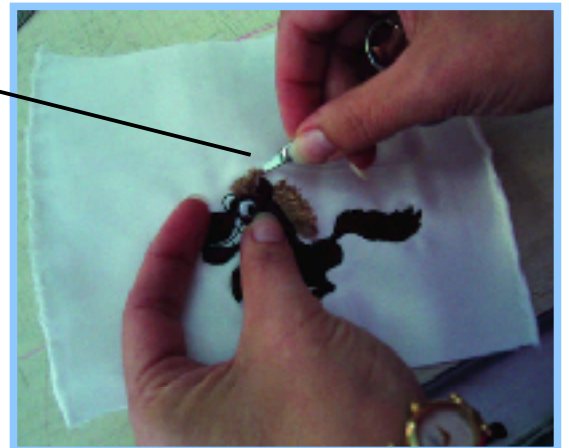

Fringe adds an exciting element to embroidery, this tutorial will teach you how to finish off the fringe once it is sewn out.

After your design has sewn out, turn it upside down to gain access to the white bobbin stitches. Cut the white bobbin stitches with small sewing scissors, while being careful not to cut through the fabric.

Flip the design back over so it is right side up. Pull fringe stitches free with the tip of your sewing scissors.

Now you have "Fringe" which you can leave as is or trim with scissors, depending on the look you want to achieve.
